This is a reprint. The original was scanned and the text corrected for spellings, something that was very difficult in the original mimeograph process. There is also some minor editing. The Hales Manuscript pages being developed during the publication of the Old Series of The Hales Newsletter have been deleted because the content is now found in The Hales Chronicles, now in its second edition with the third edition planned for 2005.

The Hales Chronicles can be found on the Hales web-page at www.hales.org and at The Family History Library of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at Salt Lake City, Utah; The Library of Congress at Washington, D.C.; The Library of The Society of Genealogists at London, England; and the Centre for Kentish Studies at Maidstone, Kent, England.

The Hales Newsletter is provided to the above cited repositories and the Allen County Public Library at Fort Wayne, Indiana. The Allen County Public Library indexes our publication and provides articles through their Periodical Source Index (PERSI).

Reprints of the Old Series of The Hales Newsletters are available at a cost of $3.00 each.

Foreword

With this issue many of the Hales family of Canada have been included in our Hales Directory. Also other Hales families are included as I learn their addresses. Welcome to our project – which is to gather information to publish a book showing all of the Hales families worldwide including variant spellings. This Newsletter is now sent to over 900 Hales families.

The next issue of our Hales Newsletter will include an updated copy of our Hales Directory. In order to make this edition as accurate as possible I am requesting your help. Please check the address on your Newsletter and let me know if it is correct or in error. Also, please look over the returned mail list in the Hales Newsletters published to this date and let me know if you can correct any of the addresses.

Please feel free to criticize the content and makeup of this Newsletter and our Family Organization. I welcome your comments.

Remember that our Hales family motto is: United Force is Stronger. Lets all pitch in and get our organization moving. Thanks to all of you for your support.

News and Views

This section of our newsletter contains the “happenings” that I am made aware of between issues. Send me your announcements of area reunions, marriages, births, deaths, etcetera, and they will be included in the newsletter. Contributions of articles for the newsletter are requested.

Mrs. Eva S. Hales of Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan writes that the father (now deceased) of Alfred Hales, a member of Parliament in Ottawa, visited England and told about a graveyard where the Hales were known as the “giant” Hales because they were so tall. No doubt he was referring to the Hales of Winterton – a family of giants of this name, who resided at Winterton, Robert Hales standing 7' 6" and weighing 34 stones 6 pounds (482 pounds). All of his brothers averaged 6' 5" and his sisters 6' 3" were the offspring of a father standing 6' 6" and a mother 6' 3". Reference: Walter Rye, Norfolk Families, pg. 291.

Al and Ginny Hales are leaving Los Angeles temporarily. Al has a partial sabbatical, during which he will both research and teach at the University of Washington. They will return to Los Angeles next June and Al will resume his duties at UCLA where he has tenure. Both having PhD. Degrees, Al and his brother Stanton are mathematics professors. Al at UCLA and Stanton at Pomona.

Congratulations to Dr. John Stuart and Providencia Hales of Brooklyn, NY on the birth of their son, John Stuart Hales, Jr. on March 7, 1970.

Jimmie Bob Hales D.D.S., and his wife Loretta of Irving, Texas on the birth of their son, Jeffrey Scott Hales on April 2, 1970.

Margaret Hales McKitty (Mrs. William McKitty) of New York, New York on the birth of their daughter Kathleen Tara on August 12, 1970.

DeWitt Clinton and Carol Ann Hales of Torrance, California on the birth of their son, Geoffrey Clinton Hales on August 16, 1970.

R. Stanton and Diane Hales – Stanton is the U.S. Men's Singles Badminton Champion, and Diane is the National Intercollegiate Women's Singles Badminton Champion.

Hales Place Tenterden, Kent, England

This is Hales Place, Tenterden. It was built by John Hales, great-grandson of Nicholas de Hales, the common ancestor of the Hales family of Kent and much England. In the early 1300s Nicholas had two sons: Sir Robert de Hales and Nicholas de Hales. Sir Robert de Hales was Prior of the Hospital of Saint John of Jerusalem in England, Admiral of the Kings Fleet, and Treasurer of the Kings Exchequer. He was beheaded by rebels during the Wat Tyler rebellion and died without issue.

Nicholas de Hales, son of Nicholas, became the heir and was the father of Thomas Hales of Hales Place near High Halden, Kent, England. I do not have a sketch of Hales Place, High Halden, but it is described as follows: "Hales Place is an ancient residence embosomed in foliage about one mile east from the church of High Halden and is eminent as having been the original seat of the Hales, who in the reign of Henry VIII removed to Tenterden."

It appears that John Hales is the common ancestor of the Hales families of Kent, Oxford, and Hertsford, England. His brother Thomas appears to be the common ancestor of the Hales family of Lincoln and Warwick, England. His other brother Henry appears to be the common ancestor of the Hales family of Essex, England. So from the original home near High Halden the Hales family spread over all of England.

(Note: The Norfolk Hales family appears to be distant cousins).

Sir Edward Hales, “through prudent marriages,” became the second wealthiest man in Kent, England, with a yearly income of £6,055 and owning property scattered throughout Kent according to C. W. Chalkin, Seventeenth Century Kent, page 197. He is referred to as Sir Edward Hales of Woodchurch and owned the arms seen on the cover of this Newsletter. He will be the subject of a more complete sketch in a future Newsletter.

Shown on the next page is the great mansion house at Hackington, about one mile north of Canterbury, Kent, England. It was built circa 1227 when Archbishop Stephen Langton made his brother Simon Archdeacon of Canterbury, and helped him build a residence. It was later rebuilt by Sir Roger Manwood from the ruinous condition it was in when it was presented to him in 1562 by Queen Elizabeth.

Of this mansion, Cousins, in his Tour, says that “If ever it be finished, it will be more fit for the residence of a monarch than for a simple country gentleman.

Sir John Hales of Tunstall, great-great-grandson of Sir Edward Hales of Woodchurch, purchased the mansion from Colonel Thomas Colepeper who owned it in 1675.

The Hales family retained possession of the old house until, in 1759, Sir Edward Hales thought fit to build himself and his successors the mansion known thenceforth as Hales Place, Hackington, which stood on rising ground a little to the north of the old Place House. The new mansion being built, Sir Edward proceeded to pull down the old house.

Hales Place, Hackington, later was extended by the Jesuits, and was used as a college. The Jesuits left in 1928 and the house and estate fell into speculative hands, and now Hales Place and Saint Mary's College, as the Jesuits called their extension, have been swept away into oblivion (see Archaeologia Cantiana, Vol. 45, page 201).

Chilson Manor, Home of Samuel Hales, Esquire

Sir Edward Hales purchased Chilson Manor for his son Samuel from John Hales, the son of William Hales.

Family Sheets and Index

The family sheets that were received during the period of time that the Old Series of the Hales Newsletter was published have been deleted from this Newsletter. These family sheets are now part of the collection of families that can be found in The Hales Chronicles, our three volume work containing more than 31,000 individuals and which can be found on the internet at www.hales.org or at the Family History Library of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; The Library of Congress in Washington, DC; The Library of The Society of Genealogists at London, England; and The Centre for Kentish Studies at Maidstone, Kent, England.

If your family information is not found in The Hales Chronicles please submit your information to the Hales Society.
